

Please nominate us for the Booktime Prize Draw!

This autumn Booktime is giving 680,000 copies of “Slowly, Slowly, Slowly,” Said the Sloth by Eric Carle to reception class children. To celebrate they are offering primary schools and libraries the chance to enter a prize draw to receive an exclusive artist’s proof from the book.

Each vibrant, colourful spread is signed by, Eric Carle, author and illustrator of Slowly, Slowly, Slowly,” Said the Sloth, The Very Hungry Caterpillar and many other much loved picture books.

You can help us to get this exclusive artwork!

All you have to do is nominate us* before 31 October at www.booktime.org.uk

About Booktime

Booktime encourages children, parents and carers to read together for pleasure by giving a free book pack to children starting primary school. Booktime was established in 2006 by independent charity Booktrust and Pearson, the world’s leading publisher and education technology company.

The Booktime website has interactive games and fun resources inspired by “Slowly, Slowly, Slowly,” Said the Sloth for families, librarians and teachers – so visit www.booktime.org.uk today.

* Anyone can nominate one primary school and one library. Full terms and conditions can be found online at www.booktime.org.uk

puffinbooks.com

www.booktime.org.uk